EQUINE ASSISTED LEARNING

Equine Assisted Learning is the facilitator’s job to help the client reach that transformation. The horse/human connection is actually a very odd one. The horse is a prey animal and humans are a predator. It astounds me that we have been able to make a connection with these animals. Even though we have that one major difference we have many things in common. Both species are intensely social and have interdependencies. Trust, respect, and integrity are important in both social structures. How these are manifested in each social group is different. As a predatorial species we create for survival, protection, and control. We have a hierarchy that is highly competitive. Horses have a hierarchy also but it is not competitive, it is based on cooperation for the good of the herd. A horse’s leader (the alpha) leads without fear, has the herds’ best interests in mind, they contribute to the herd, and they have a keen sense of environmental awareness, and are assertive. The alpha will change over time based on who in that herd is most capable of carrying the needs of herd. As humans we tend to be myopic and don’t really see what is going on in the environment around us. Horses need to be aware of the changing conditions and the environment all the time and make adjustments as needed. They have excellent peripheral vision that allows them to come to a resolution quickly and for the good of the herd. Horse Herd dynamics demonstrate a culture of cooperation (a culture of care) has the best interest of the whole herd and the individual in mind. When we are with horses we are allowing us to be part of their herd. They are giving us the opportunity to learn from them and create within ourselves the same attributes that will allow us to create a culture that values the individual, choose leaders that have everyone’s best interest at heart, and values a culture of cooperation over competition. When horses are partners in experiential learning they reflect emotions, behaviors, attitudes and experiences. This is reflected in our interactions and how beneficial they are. The horses give immediate feedback. When that feedback is reflected on we can identify the most effective way to reach our goals. Palomino Acres has hosted several programs including a pilot program for GST BOCES with at-risk youth, adult self-improvement programs, and Team Building events with sports teams. Palomino Acres has two new programs starting Talk To Me At The Barn kids is for young adults and the focus will be on strengthening and developing character traits and developmental assets. To register for these programs or for more information please e-mail Tammy@palominocaliforniares.com to learn more about the programs and services offered at Palomino Acres. Equine Assisted Learning is very versatile. We can develop a program to meet your needs.

Palomino Acres – Equine Services LLC in Lindley. She has 20 years of horse experience and is the author of Talk To Me – Round Pen Training From The Horse’s Point of View. She has also completed GaWaNi Pony Boy’s Regional Advisor program. Pony Boy is a world famous trainer using Native American techniques. Mrs. Marsh has also served on the Board of Directors for Reins of Hope Therapeutic Riding Program for 10 years and prior to that she volunteered for the program. She was also one of ten trainers on the East coast to help create the Equine Comeback Challenge where she was assigned an untrained horse and given 90 days to train the horse to show level. Neil is still with her and is one of the horses in the program. Mrs. Marsh also has 19 years of teaching experience as a Biology teacher. Tammy is combining her love and passion for teaching and horses. Equine Assisted Learning is not horseback riding and the focus is not on conventional horse training. Participants interact with horses through structured activities. No prior horse experience is necessary and they learn how to interact with each other and with the horse. Horse body language gives us insights into the person or group the horse is working with the feedback the horse gives you is immediate. If energy shifts within the person or group the horse will reflect that. The shift may be positive or negative. Observing the horse’s reactions gives the facilitator focus during the debrief. Did you notice when….. what was going on with you (the group) at that point? It truly helps create self-awareness in the person and in group dynamics. It helps people understand how one person affects those around them. Horses cannot tolerate incongruence, therefore it is impossible to hide from the horses. If a person is afraid or resistant but putting on a brave front the horse will know and his body language will reflect that. A person doesn’t have to conquer that fear to affect change in the horse but they do need to acknowledge the fear. The facilitator may not be able to pick up on the facade and the true emotion. Again the horse’s body language gives the facilitator insights to be used in the debrief. Horses live in the moment. So what they are reflecting back to us is what is happening right now. Not what happened last week, not what is going to happen in 2 hours. The feedback we get is pertinent to right now and the issues that need to be dealt with right now. The good news is that the issues brought up by the horses need to be addressed immediately. It is our job to reflect that on it, we can come up with a plan to affect change starting immediately. It is the facilitator’s job to help the client reach that transformation. The horse/human connection is actually a very odd one. The horse is a prey

Current Happenings

A new year brings new happenings here at Valley School. One major topic being studied this month is called “Sunshine and Snowflakes.” This unit is about the differences between seasons, what the weather and environment is like at different times of the year, and how people and animals adapt to the different seasons. Hibernation, transportation, and community helpers are other topics being discussed this month.

Creating Scientific Thinking in Preschool

The Valley School continues to follow the Common Core Preschool Math Curriculum and implements the Common Core ELA standards each day. This year the staff has begun focusing on the new standards in science and finding ways to integrate scientific thinking through real world experiences. Examples of this include: studying sinking and floating, winter, the water cycle, hibernation, and simple machines. The Science and Discovery Center recently visited the school to teach us about patterns and sorting.

Upcoming Event: Week of the Young Child

The Valley Staff is excited to share that they will be partnering with surrounding community resources such as the Jennie Mose Family Resource Center and Healthy Families to participate in the “Week of the Young Child.” This is an annual celebration put on by the National Association for the Education of Young Children. Young children and their families depend on high-quality education and care, which help children get a great start and bring lasting benefits to our community. Week of the Young Child™ is a time to recognize the importance of early learning and early literacy, and to celebrate the teachers and policies that bring early childhood education to young children. This will take place the week of April 16th...details to follow!

The Tuscarora PTA Chocolate Sale kicked off Friday, January 15th and goes through Friday, January 29th. This is the only PTA fundraiser and the money earned helps us provide many wonderful programs for the students. With this funding, we can bring in assemblies like In Jest, The Brian Show, and the laser shows by Prismatic Magic. Additionally, we support the district in purchasing books for the Duffy Books In Homes giveaway that are done regularly throughout the year. The PTA also hosts family night events like Holiday Night, the Father-Daughter Dance, and Family Movie Nights. Finally, the PTA sends 5th graders on their Challenger Mission Field Trip as an elementary school send-off experience. Every purchase, from a single item to the many items sold by the top sellers, has an impact!

Regents Review

The bee lasted a total of 8 rounds with 3rd-Grader Frank Heidrick winning by correctly spelling medi-an. 5th-Grader Hailey Morse was the runner-up. They are the winners of a 1-year subscription to Encyclopedia Britannica Online for Kids. Both Frank and Hailey will be representing Tuscarora Elementary School at the Regional Spelling Bee at Campbell-Savona High School on March 10th. The Regional Bee features students from all across our area from both elementary and middle schools. The winner of that competition will represent our region in Washington, D.C. at the Scripps National Spelling Bee. A big thank you to the Tuscarora PTA for supporting the registration in the Spelling Bee, refreshments, and the wonderful trophies. Mrs. Morse, the Spelling Bee Coordinator, would also like to extend a thank you to all of the staff who volunteered their time to help with the event.

Paul D. Brown

Paul D. Brown, 70, of Mack Road, Addison (Town of Tuscarora), died very suddenly on Monday, January 18, 2016 at Coming Home after being stricken at home.

Paul was born in Corning on August 7, 1945, the son of the late Lee Frederick and Elizabeth Ruth (Thomson) Brown. Growing up in the Addison area, he was a graduate of Addison Central School. While in school he teamed up with his brother David and competed in doubles table tennis, winning a sectional title. He also spent many hours on the family farm as a boy helping his uncle Paul in the operation of the farm.

He enlisted in the US Army and served his country during the Vietnam War. Returning from the service, Paul went to work for Ingersoll Rand Co. in Painted Post where he eventually retired from Dresser Rand Co. with 42 years of active employment.

On April 27, 1974, Paul and the former Debra Hand were married at the Tuscarora Baptist Church with Rev. Karl Schoonover officiating. Deb survives.

Paul was a great competitor. He had been a very active league bowler at Elkland Lanes and enjoyed rounds of golf with friends and family. He was a great supporter of Addison Central School basketball programs. He loved deer hunting and always looked forward to his annual hunts with his nephews.

An avid outdoorsman and shooting enthusiast, Paul belonged to the Addison Fish and Game Club as well as the Keystone Rod and Gun Club in Muncy, PA. He was also a former member of the Corning Fish and Game Club. An active and skilled trap shooter, Paul was the 2015 Eastern Zone Veterans Champion of the American Trap Shooting Assoc. at the Michael E. Campbell Handicap Trap Competition in Elysburg, PA, a win that he took great pride in.

Paul was a kind and sweet man who was loved by all that knew him. He loved his family dearly and had no foes in the world.

He is survived by his loving wife of over 41 years, Deb (Debra Brown) Hand; his brother, Arnold Brown of Elmira, his sisters in law, Linda (Larry) Nowicki and Dells Hand, his brothers in law, Stephen (Cindy) Hand Sr. and Christopher (Anne) Hand and many nieces and nephews.
